Conversation and companionship
Support after a bereavement

If you love books, have experienced a bereavement and want to join a friendly group, this is the book club for you. This club will allow you to read books you wouldn't normally read and meet new people who may be in a similar situation to yourself.

Groups start several times a year and meet monthly. Most sessions are held at the Hospice, but other locations are considered if there is an appropriate community space. The first six sessions are assisted by one of our Book Group Facilitators.

If interested, please email library@pah.org.uk or call 01372 461843

When we have received enough members (usually around 10) you will be invited to an introductory session. If you can't make this session, you'll go to the top of the list for the next book club group.
